

Hong Kong Civil Aviation Training Center

Foreword

The Civil Aviation Department of Hong Kong Special Administrative Region is committed to the provision of a safe and efficient air transport system. To uphold this commitment and respond to new challenges, staff training has always been our main focus. We believe that training is the most effective way for us to acquire the required knowledge in the ever-developing new technologies, new rules and regulations and best practices.

The Hong Kong Civil Aviation Training Center is set up with the mission to provide the aviation community with systematic and comprehensive training programmes covering various technical aspects of aviation. Being a member of the Asia Pacific region, we feel that it is our community responsibility to share our knowledge and experience with our fellow members. We can also benefit from the interactive sharing process.

Civil aviation is a dynamic, advancing and rapidly growing industry. One of the major challenges we all have to face along with this development and growth is to maintain and improve the safety and efficiency of air travel. To excel ourselves in meeting all the challenges today and ahead of us, continuous learning through effective training is essential. Therefore, we sincerely invite colleagues from regulatory agencies, air traffic management organizations, airport authorities, airlines, maintenance or engineering organizations and all personnel engaged in the aviation-related industries in the region, to enroll and participate in our training programmes as set out in this booklet.

Knowledge and experiences are transportable in the domain of civil aviation. Let's explore together, through learning and sharing, to further enhance our safe and efficient air transport system.
